Company Profile

Since 1925, our name stands for competence in building and bridge construction.

We offer high quality and intelligent solutions in industrial construction and commercial construction, from engineering and steel construction, light metal construction to bridge construction, up to all degrees of completion and the turnkey realization of your project. From consulting and planning phase to project management and coordination of the construction process up to interior fittings and installation service - the wide range of services goes far beyond that of a typical construction company and combines them in one hand.

CHRISTMANN & PFEIFER combines the advantages of a family company with those of an enterprise. Short decision strategy, high flexibility and obligatory consulting and support close to customer demand are linked to capacity and know-how.

Because of the structure of independent companies from the manufacturing and power sectors turnkey construction, industrial construction, light metal construction, bridge construction, engineering, steel construction and furniture systems CHRISTMANN & PFEIFER constitutes an optimal network of specialists for all industrial construction projects in all degrees of completion

Our technical office and structural engineers also ensure that construction projects are optimized and special designs and special customer visions are realized.
